Hi,
I’m Rhonda

Like you, world traveler, online branding strategist, social media expert and author, Rhonda Swan has experienced the online world and the digital economy defined numerous ways over the years while traveling and running a global business. Is it technology advancements and positive thinking? Global expansion into underdeveloped countries? The need for low cost, low overhead, diligent workers? Is it meant only for the chosen few who rise to the top? Or, is there a different story?

With over a decade of business consulting, executive coaching, International speaking, and most importantly, real-life, in-the-trenches business experience, her view is radically different. Rhonda appreciates, and shares with listeners, that building a brand and global expansion in the digital economy is coming at us faster than we can tie our shoes, it is a moment-to-moment world of change and need for high calibre workers from around the world to support an ever growing online economy.

Brand expansion and reach is for everyone, every company everyday. It’s how we should live our life. By productizing our knowledge, and combining resources rather than limiting ourselves to our home country is what the world is craving from a socially conscious brand.

Rhonda, sometimes referred to as the “Provocateur” or “Power Woman” for her ability to stir up a group or as the “Unstoppable Momma” for her coaching skill that brings out the best in people, is known for her practical, street-savvy style; Rhonda’s fusion of real-life stories and her conversational techniques connect with her audience at an intimate, intense and individual level. She can make you cry and think at the same time.

Past CAREER

Rhonda has served as a Senior Marketing Manager for the Philip Morris Corporation, along with Senior Sales Consultant with Glaxo SmithKline Pharmaceuticals. She is the creator and Certified Master Facilitator for Branding and Social Media Workshops teaching The Sexy Brand Building Formula. She is the CEO of the Unstoppable Branding Agency (UBA) and founder of the Freedom-Preneur Academy & Movement. She continues to work with the best and brightest in the leadership development field and consults with brands around the globe.

The Only Way I Knew
to not be at the mercy of a fickle market landscape, and perhaps, a few years down the road, the victim of another bubble popping, was the security of an office building. But I’d made a vow to my little girl that I would raise her and not leave her to some set of strangers on a daycare. That vow meant everything to me, but our investments were gone, our IRA’s were gone. It was like being cornered and wondering which animal would bite you first.

And then I did it—I’d finally made a sale. And then a lot of sales. And all at once, the name of the game was five-figure months. I still remember our first time pulling this off, making more than thirty thousand dollars, from home, in a single month. It was 2007, and my family had everything it could have ever dreamed of wanting.

Then the real estate bubble popped, and worse, we found out that one of the people we’d trusted the most was a complete fraud. We’d been working together to develop a golf course, and right as the economy soured, we found that he hadn’t been working on it at all—he’d pocketed our investment and there was no golf course. He’d vanished, and he took everything with him.

My Sealed With A Kiss Promise

“If you’re going to create a brand create a SEXY brand, If your going to be anything #BEUNSTOPPABLE!”
Unstoppable Branding Experience Philosophy

Hello! It’s Rhonda Swan
from the Unstoppable Branding Experience

Thanks for being part of the Unstoppable Branding Experience and taking your Brand and serious as it is.

I believe every small business owner should feel empowered to market their business themselves. “Empowered“ means you have the knowledge, confidence, and tools to get the job done. You understand how to target your ideal customer, and how to build marketing materials and campaigns that grow your profits. I believe in the undeniable power of combining strategic marketing with great design.

If your branding & marketing is well-thought-out, but looks terrible, no one will take your business seriously. If your design is beautiful, but your marketing isn’t planned strategically, it will fall flat. This combination of strategic marketing and great design builds an “UNSTOPPABLE” brand that grows your business. I am excited for you and your business.
